

Why Donate?

My PASA, Su Casa provides a way for friends and supporters of the Providence After School Alliance to raise money to sustain PASA's efforts and allow you to take a tax deduction for your support. By listing your house on Airbnb.com, you can collect rental income and then donate all or a portion to PASA, helping us to continue to enrich the lives of thousands of Providence's public school youth, all through donating your house to a Brown University family in town for graduation. In past years, PASA has raised $20,000 a year for after school and summer programming.

FAQs

How do I donate?

List your house on Airbnb.com! Airbnb.com has put together a quick guide on how to use their service as a host. Find it here: <https://www.airbnb.com/help/getting-started/how-to-host>

You can send all or a portion of the rent to PASA as a regular donation of cash. Be sure to let us know that it came through My PASA, Su Casa. Let people know that your listing goes to supporting high quality after school programming in Providence through the Providence After School Alliance.

Why are you using Airbnb.com?

In the past, My PASA, Su Casa was managed entirely by PASA. Under Airbnb.com, donors have more flexibility in when to rent their house, who to rent it to, how much to rent it for and how much to donate to PASA. Airbnb.com also provides hosts with $1,000,000 guarantee in the event of lost or damaged property. With Airbnb.com, you can rent your house—worry-free—on your own terms.

When should I rent my house?

Whenever is convenient for you! Providence has become a destination in the past few years, so there's rarely a bad time to rent. Many people visit the city during Brown University's commencement (May 23rd to May 26th) and RISD's commencement (May 30th to June 2nd). PASA promotes My PASA, Su Casa to those college's communities, and we often have interested renters to pass along to donors.

How much should I donate?

However much you'd like to. Many donors like to give 100% of their rent to PASA, but some keep a portion to cover cleaning costs, guests' utility bills, or help cover any other expenses associated.

What's PASA doing?
